
Subject: key config stuff

Posted by jonwil on Sat, 25 Feb 2006 00:02:16 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

Firstly, if you dont want any of the keys, you can delete keys.cfg from your data folder.
Also, if you want to edit the keys, use the keycfg.exe as mentioned in the readme.
If you want to delete some keys and keep others, open keys.cfg with notepad and remove the keys you dont want mappings for.

In a future release of the scripts.dll and keys.cfg editor I will add a way to set a key to "nothing" (i.e. it wont actually trigger) or to remove a key completly (the first is preferable since it reminds you that the key is there if you want to set it to something else later).

Subject: Re: key config stuff

Posted by =HT=T-Bird on Sat, 25 Feb 2006 12:52:44 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

jonwil wrote on Fri, 24 February 2006 18:02
Firstly, if you dont want any of the keys, you can delete keys.cfg from your data folder.
Also, if you want to edit the keys, use the keycfg.exe as mentioned in the readme.
If you want to delete some keys and keep others, open keys.cfg with notepad and remove the keys you dont want mappings for.

In a future release of the scripts.dll and keys.cfg editor I will add a way to set a key to "nothing" (i.e. it wont actually trigger)
or to remove a key completly (the first is preferable since it reminds you that the key is there if you want to set it to something else later).

How about handling modified keystrokes (as in Shift+something)properly? I can't use the stock keys.cfg b/c of what my GameCam hotkeys are bound to...

Subject: Re: key config stuff

Posted by jonwil on Sat, 25 Feb 2006 13:05:06 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

There is no problem editing keys.cfg with the supplied keycfg.exe file to change what the keys are bound to if they are conflicting with what you have other things set to.
The code will pick up the relavent changes automatically.

Subject: Re: key config stuff

Posted by cleverola on Wed, 24 Oct 2007 20:09:48 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

I have some particular troubles with my key configuration. I like to play with the keys on my numb pad. I run Vista and all the patches (in adm mode) and I know there are some troubles with that. When I reinstalled this a few months ago I saw the solution in a forum, but cannot find it anymore. Now I installed Renegade + Renguard again and have the trouble of hampering moves.

Any idea to solve this someone?

Subject: Re: key config stuff

Posted by Goztow on Wed, 24 Oct 2007 21:55:17 GMT

View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

cleverola wrote on Wed, 24 October 2007 22:09I have some particular troubles with my key configuration. I like to play with the keys on my numb pad. I run Vista and all the patches (in adm mode) and I know there are some troubles with that. When I reinstalled this a few months ago I saw the solution in a forum, but cannot find it anymore. Now I installed Renegade + Renguard again and have the trouble of hampering moves.

Any idea to solve this someone?

Same as above: use keys.exe (in ren directory) to change the key settings.
