on renegade i have a nickname as superj69.once b4 i got kicked on a server for a reason im not sure of and was never told, i went to the forums for that server and they suggested making another nickname untill teh server restarts.

i heard that to make a nickname nowadays all you have to do is try to log in with it.is this true?

i tried doing this and no matter what i tried it kept saying that there were no servers. i tried my original one and there were so ya.i also tried doing it by going to new account, i never got an email to verify it, most likely because its xwis now and not wol.and i still didnt get another nick.

i was wonderin how do u make another nickname for renegade?

on the login screen, you need somthing like "register" or "not a user yet" somthing like that, it is how you get ur original user in the first place. you will see it on ther next page.

Yes, it's true. You probably have too many nicknames on your serial, or someone already has that name. What does the Renegade MOTD say when you log in?

The MOTD is the window that pops up right before you get to the Advanced Listings.

well it has only once out of the many times i have tried to log in with another nick. it says that i have already registered 9 nicks with my serial.

Is there a way to get rid of some of the older nicks. my brother has made like 4 of them in the past plus the one he actually uses.
