Sea Of Fire

I have recently found this pretty cool strategy game that sort of reminds me of C&C, even if it plays very differently.

I wonder if you people will like it as much as me.

Ya rly i wit vikin candctree sux asz bcuz eA maked it an it has alieum omg OMG!

Srsly-

This game entertained me for a while, but the gameplay is just too slow and I hate not having control over my units D:

And it comes NOWHERE near even being on the same level as C&C 3.

SupCom fails because it eats your computer. C&C3 on the other hand is brilliant because its super speedy on slightly lower end systems.

Lol? My brother is using a Socket 478 2.2GHz CELERON with some one 5200 RPM paging/system drive and an 7200 RPM ATA100 drive with the game on it, an AGP 4X (might be 8X) Radeon 9550 512 MB and 1.5 GB of RAM and he can run it... How bad is your PC?

There's a difference between running a game and playing it decently.

There's no way Supreme Commander runs smoothly on that computer.

Indeed, my PC can run it. But it is not good enough to play it decently.

I am glad I could help. So, anyone else likes this game as much as I do? I think it is one of the best flash strategy games ever.

Anyway, I have beat the game with the house of snakes(or what is it called) and some levels were pretty hard, specially the one where you don't have SAM sites yet and enemy has planes.

The beginning was hard too, but I finally found out that you need to get oil first, then gold, and then you can attack the rest of the island.

YO! I beat it finally! I played as the Temple of Snakes.

WOW, that was hard!

In the first misisons in the island, I just mass-produced infantry and rushed the base.

But it did not work later so I figured I have to build SAM sites and Ground defense missiles and a Financial Center. I did that for most of the later levels. I built up cash and enjoyed the kills.

All this time, the enemy was bombing my base with bombers. Took me about 2 hours, lol!

I like the House of Snakes cuz thay are kinda like Nod! I don't even want to play as the New Hope Alliance...they remind me of scum GDI.
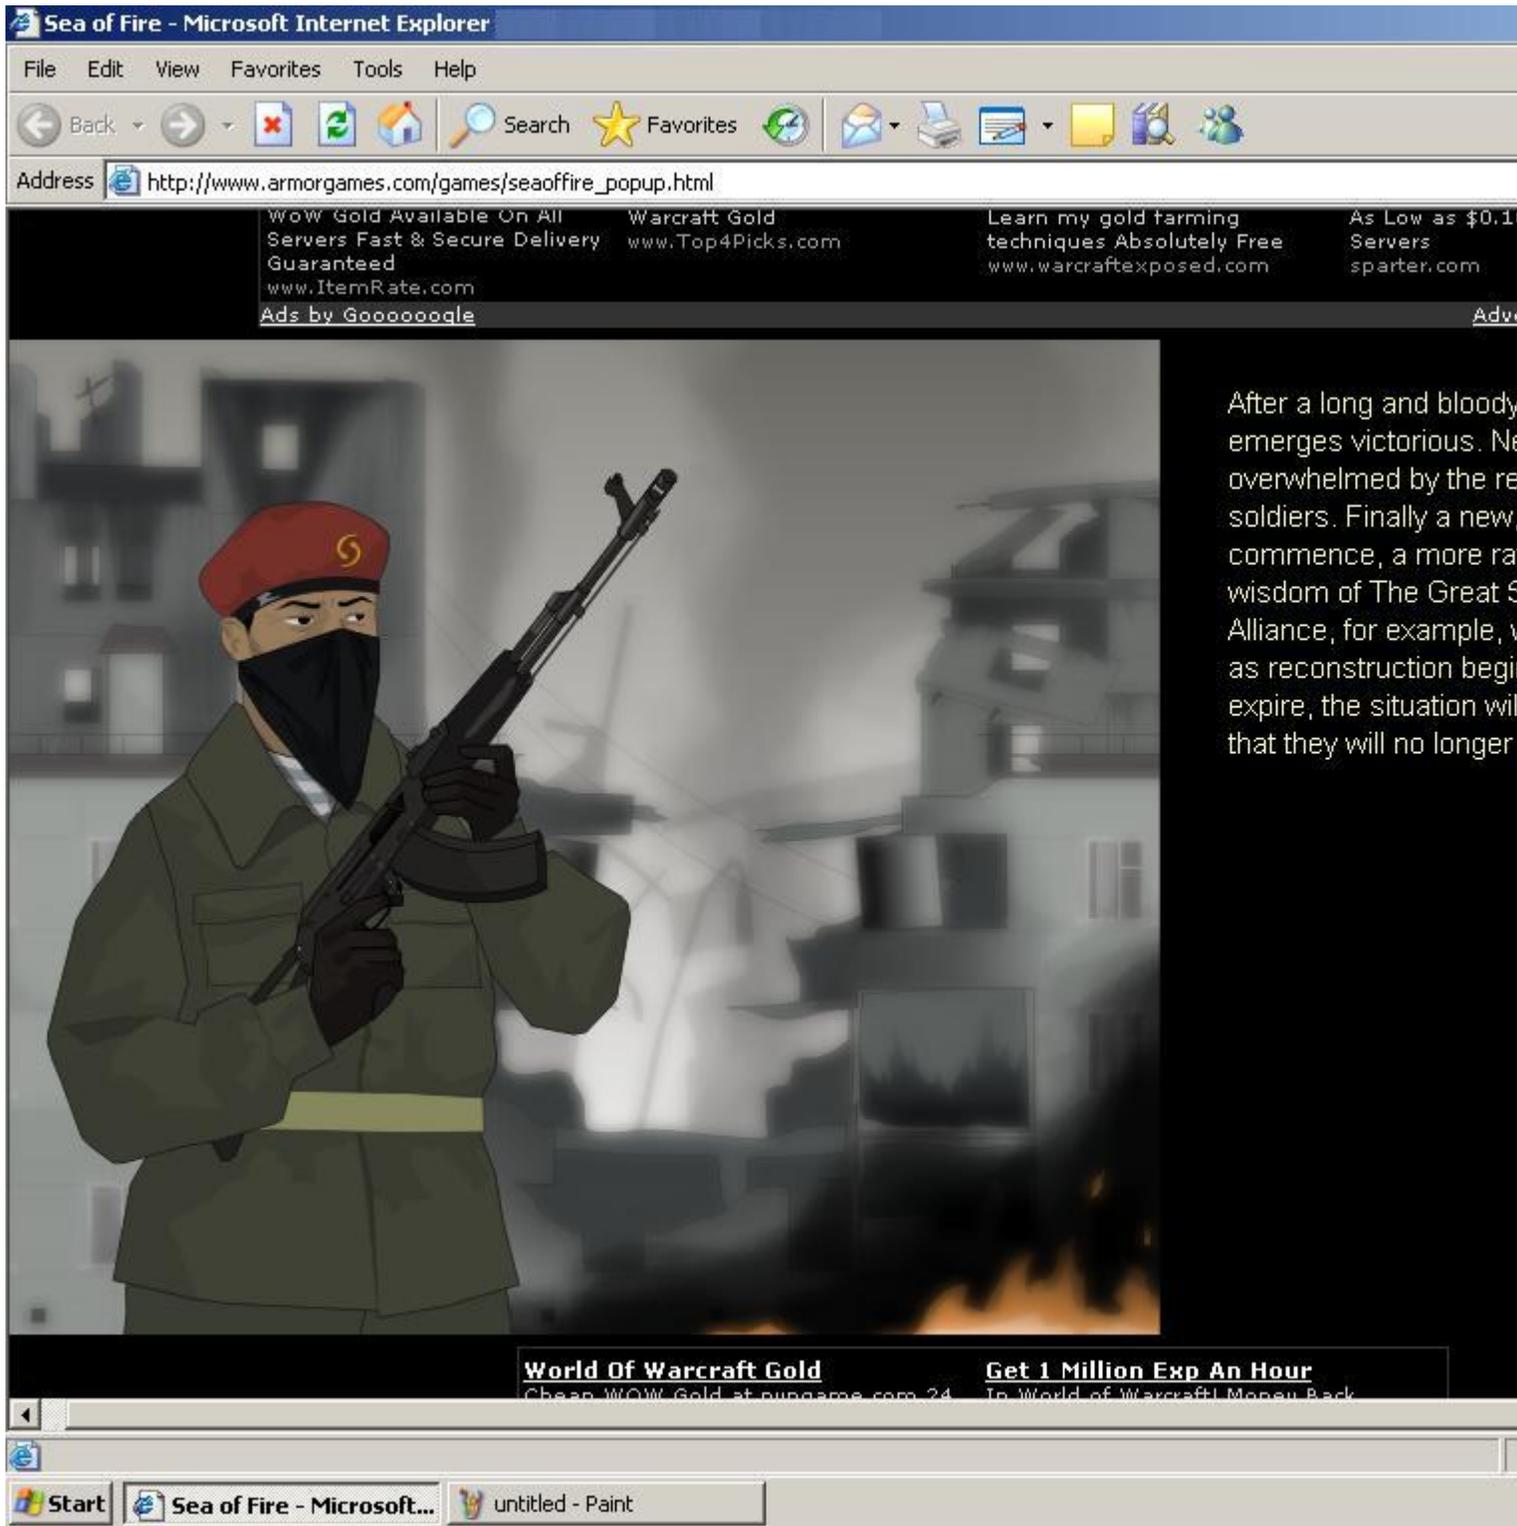

Well, Terminator, THANKS A LOT for pointing me to it! I appreciate it! This game really pwns C&C3! This is indeed one of the best flash strategy games ever. lol!

The attachment shows the average "Temple soldier." lol!

Good, now if you think the game is hard, try the last New Hope Alliance mission. That one is HELL. If enemy builds 2 missle launchers, and you can't destroy the fast enough you are pretty much screwed. I am pretty good at this game but just had so much problems in the last new alliance mission, it was not even funny any more.

hahah! How did you get through to the last New alliance mission???!!

Cuz I am having trouble beating the very first mission...the flametroopers burn off my infantry and the New Alliance units cost a lot of money.

Go after the gold first, and then get oil. Good luck.

Anyway, the only way to win in the last alliance mission is to use lots of air strikes.
