Website - try freewebs or similar where you can create a simple website using templates etc.

Forums are all you really need invisionfree or proboards are a couple of free ones

Making clanwars - just visit other clans forums and introduce yourself and request matches, check out renegadewiki or clanwars.cc if you are looking for lists of clans to contact

If it's just you atm, I would suggest joining an existing clan/community rather than trying to do all this - there aren't many players about these days that are looking for clans.

You have very little chance of finding someone through here that is going to do all that for you.

again another great reply there mex.

i cant reli top his advice.

but if u want a little bit of help or 2 ask questions, give me a shout on my irc.

Most of your questions can be answered with the power of Google!

Example Free Forums:

Its DAM hell not easy to find Decent Players who want to join clans these days if your a new clan, I would defently recommend joining a clan over trying to form one now days!

It's difficult enough with my Clan thats about 7 months old.

i have enough players..
i only need a co-leader..
SF is dead for now..
but when i have a co-leader i will put it back online..
and i had a bat co-leader..
now i want a good one..

It's always best to start before you find something, there is a big difference and it would also help your recruitments that are needed.

Just keep searching and also you might want to join big games, it can help.

You just take a new nickname which includes this tag.

On GSA you can add the [], WOL doesn't support those character so you'd do something like SFplayer (max 9 characters on WOL).
