A sound driver really isn't specific enough, there are probably thousands of sound drivers. Is it for a motherboard or a sound card, who makes it, what's the model number?

Sound driver > Windows Updates.
Winamp > www.winamp.com free public download version.

He doesn't want WinAmp, he wants Winzip.

A model number would help for your sound card.

Google free winzip, then google for your sound driver or use windows update, I said google.com earlier because I dont know what model number or board you have, I cant just say "you need this, here it is"

You have to pay for winzip on winzip.com

Sorry, forgot to mention the driver needed to be on board as i have no sound-card.

Will google them as you said, but i was really asking for the opinion of the best sound driver. Guess it doesn't really matter anymore.

All you need is the sound driver that you get in windows update, lol.

Instead of winzip, I'll recommend winrar.

XP has zipfile support built in ("compressed folders"). If you must have a 3rd party prog, I've always found WinRAR to be nice. It handles everything from zipfiles, to tarfiles, to ISO images.

You also don't need to buy it. Just click Close when the nag screen pops up.
