Nice folder for cheats...I hope they are not for Renegade.

Other than that, it's goo you still play RA2/YR...cool. Also a very nice background!

That computer right there is can't and will never connect to the internet. Anyway the cheats were made by me and I only use cheats for my own fun in like Single Player and Multiplayer Practiece, never in Online play. Thanks I own all C&C games except C&C 3 and I play them all the time. That computer ther is a:

P II 400 Mhz cpu
192 MB SDRAM
16 MB Voodoo 3 Graphics
10 GB HDD
1 standard 42x CD-ROM (Read Only)

I LOL'd how you guys assume automatically (since this is, after all, a renegade forum) that they must be renegade cheats, intended to be maliciously used to ruin the lives of others on online etc, etc. LULZOR1!!

I did not assume that. Now read what I said more carefully:

He also has Level Edit installed on that machine, which is a RAM hog in itself and uses a fair bit of CPU... and why would it have a RENEGADE folder if Renegade was not installed?

So you decided to take a ss on that computer, send it to your current computer, and upload it here, instead of taking a ss of your current computer?

I love when people post screen shots of their desktop that show folders called "cheats", nothing like self-ownage.

how can he play those games on a windows 98...

here's mine.

That is a 56 ford COE that my dad found on the internet. He's planning to do something like that cab if he gets the one He's going to look at on Sunday.

My parents owned one of those cars for a week. My mom made my dad get rid of it because...

"You will get killed in this thing and I will loose my license."

The guy they bought it from before when he first bought it took it to a race shop and had it balanced and blue printed. The engine was so smooth after that, that you could balance a nickel on it when the engine was running and it wouldn't fall over. That car is one of 212 ever made and we owned one. I wish we still had that car.

They're real beauties, aren't they? I've seen two in my lifetime, and I would sell my soul (I kinda already have) to get my hands on one. I especially love it, because it was the model that General Motors used to throw the finger to the Environmental Protection Agency, and their idiotic pollution test at the time.

Desktop snapshot threads are always LOL...people always forget to edit out their cheats folders, or show in-game pics of them using "advantage skins". Spongebob C4 FTL.

And I remember that desktop, it was included in the Themes. It made me believe that computers actually looked like that inside back when I knew nothing about them.
