I know this comes up in the forums allot, but I tried everything and I can't seem to get this to work.

I installed Renguard and all the patches, and I followed the instructions in the wiki, and those given to every other user with the same problem, but I still can't seem to get an account to work. Every time I come up with a name and password that fits the required amount of letters, it loads, and then gives me a message saying "Page failed to load or is invalid."

Perhaps a firewall problem? Please help me without simply directing me to the Wiki, I already looked at all available help texts, posting on an internet forum is generally a last resort for me.

Just login with a user name up to 9 characters, and a password of exactly 8 characters, and if it's not already taken, it's yours. You don't need to actually register.

I'm pretty sure I already attempted that step like, a million times. Is there something I'm missing?

You have to click the Login button not the Register button to register.
