Asteroid TU24. Headed towards Earth.

Scheduled to hit... or come within 400,000Km of Earth on the 29th. (Yes in 7 days)

If you don't know how close that is than I think you should know that the Moon is 600,000Km from Earth.

Here is a Youtube video showing the simulation program:
<http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=p2hKPY1jJwM&NR=1>

Discuss our imminent doom. (If you believe it or not anyway)

Makes some repairs to what you said.
Schedueled to hit earth on the 29th of March, 2050. Video = hoax. Moon is 300,000 KM from earth.

It will pass the earth and swing with our Gravitational pull, and get shot in another direction.

Or burn in on the atmosphere, And get reduced from 1/4 of a mile to a small stone.

We should take a pot-shot at it as it passes, to save us time and trouble dealing with it later.

If that thing landed in the ocean, it would be surfs-up in Kansas.

I already don't really believe it myself either.. but when I first heard it in this thread:
<http://forums.ea.com/mboards/thread.jspa?threadID=329679&tstart=0>

I Youtube searched it, and I got a few videos so I got mixed feelings.

BTW, that video isn't a hoax, it is an actual program. Now if the program is a hoax, that is a different story.

Nuke it when its a million miles away, saving the possibility of it hitting in 2050.
