Why is it that most people just ignore other players on renegade

Everyone is attacking the enemy base and while they are doing that a great big stank rush comes along and destroys the base in the meantime i am shouting defend the base nearly 10 times and not one person comes back????

The very fact you say the enemy team can pull off a big stank rush, shows that there's a lot of players there that work in team.

It doesn't take much to get an STank rush going.

"Hey, everybody! Let's buy the coolest-looking, most expensive tank we can and go blow shit up with it!"

You know that's what the n00bs are really thinking. It's an effective bit of teamplay, but nobody does it because they want to be helpful. They do it because they want to play with the shiny toys. The H-word should only apply to those poor dumb schmucks who repair everything.

Quote:I hate people that leave the game when they are loosing.

I'll take it further than that... I hate people who stop fighting when all that's left is the Ref or the PP. Some of the best games I've played were down to the last structure with basic infantry... and it was truly astonishing just how effective basic infantry can be at holding off vehicles, n00bjets and the like when the team gets together and tries. You know damn well that you're not going to win, but there's a certain satisfaction in making the other team work for it. A lot of players, though, don't consider the game worth playing if they aren't on the winning side, and that's just fucking stupid.

I completely agree. Sometimes when I'm in a game when both barracks and war factory get destroyed, I hear a billion messages pop up on the screen that say "so-and-so" left the game. I actually enjoy fighting battles with a challenge. I have stayed for every game I played and never quit. Seriously. On one battle, where even after our war factory, power plant, and tiberium refinery were taken out, my teammates really gave up a fight. In fact, thanks to a few diligent stealth black hands a little while later, we managed to nuke their power plant and tiberium refinery and eventually we won the game! Amazing! But this rarely happens because people on the losing team give up so quickly. I want to play with some hardcore gamers that fight to the very, bloody end. If your a real hardcore gamer and play Renegade online, please notify me and tell me your name so I'll know that you're a force to be reckoned with.

P.S. I'm a hardcore gamer too. If you catch seeing WolfWarrior2 on Renegade, send a message to me. I'd be glad to be of assistance. By the way NukeIt15, those "dumb schmucks who repair everything" are really beneficial to the team. If you did a battle where no one on your team would repair anything, you'd be as good as gone.

Nah,dosent have to do with losing , has to do with 4 out of 5 of my teammates running around my base as SBH not wanting to fire becuase the enemy will see them. or the like, I personaly perfer when my WF is gone and your team has to work as one big unit to hold off the assualt.

People always blame the team, but if someone kills your pp in first 30 secs, then this also means that you weren't able to defend it.

Don't think that ren players getting noobier but the difference in skill between long time players and newbs is increasing every year. With all the expierience you have after years of playing renegade, you shouldn't expect too much from someone who just started playing it 6 month ago.

Repairing is the job of a true teamplayer. You get a really low amount of points and no recognition but you'd lose without them.

You'd be surprised what kinds of scores you can pull off just repairing. Not as high as if you'd been attacking structures all game, but certainly as high as anybody who's been fighting vehicles and infantry for the whole round. I've finished off games where I was second or third on a team of 16 people from doing nothing but repairing all game. No kills at all, didn't use any C4, didn't pull out my pistol- just used the repairgun. It's all in being the first one to respond and fix anything that needs it. Timing and situational awareness rather than accuracy, precision, and combat tactics-knowing when to stick around the base and when to head out into the field and support the troops.

That, and you get really good at evading incoming fire when you can't shoot back.

It's even more fun when you're actually able to pull off a win when it should be impossible. Although this is more likely to happen in a server that has crates or something similar.

The Grand 'ol List of Grievances and Pet Peeves:
- Idiots who drive Light Tanks and Arties forwards.
- Idiots who snipe against heavy armor.
- Idiots who get out of vehicles in the field.
- Idiots who leave unoccupied vehicles anywhere on non-AGT/Ob map.
- Idiots who open fire before the enemy is in range.
|-- Especially with a Flamer (hot tip: it obscures your teammates' vision).
|-- Especially with a STank (durrr).
- Idiots who buy Hummers/Buggies late in the game.

- Idiots who overmine.
- Idiots who mine in the wrong places.
- Idiots who buy vehicles and don't wait for support when they clearly need it.
- Idiots driving through tiberium and expecting their techs to follow.
- Idiots shoving infantry into tiberium or into the line of fire.
- Idiots who block the harvester because they don't want to give up their position.
- Idiots who shove other vehicles out of the way rather than asking them to move.
- Idiots who get my tank killed by not moving when asked.
- Idiots who give vehicles to the other team out of spite.
- Idiots who spam the chat.
- Idiots who spam voicebinds.
- Idiots who scream at people for not rushing when the entire enemy team is on defense.
- Idiots who don't capitalize on a good opportunity to rush.
- Idiots that drive right past an incoming rush and don't even try to wear it down.
- Idiots who leave the base while an attack is in progress.
- Idiots who plant beacons when they know they can't defend them.
|-- Especially if their team is only ahead by a few hundred points.
- Idiots who cry "HAX!!!" every time they die and are too dumb to figure out that splash damage was what killed them.
- Idiots who stupidly keep rushing when their APC has taken too much damage to withstand the defense tower.
- Idiots who jump into APCs as basic soldiers.
- Idiots who think that every APC wants to rush and ride around for several minutes spamming "move out" when the driver is clearly using said APC to defend the base.
- Idiots who buy Transport Helos on City_Flying... it never, ever works.
- Idiots who abandon a rush right when it hits the defenses.
- Idiots who proclaim themselves the team leader then run it into the ground.
- Idiots who follow idiots who are running the team into the ground.
- Idiots who declare themselves team leader then get pissy when nobody listens to their orders.
- Idiots who repair enemy vehicles/structures/infantry/whatever because they're too dumb to switch weapons.
- Idiots who repair enemy vehicles/structures/infantry intentionally.
- Idiots who run away from the structure that's getting beaconed.
- Idiots who don't report the location of a beacon when they find it.
- Idiots who abandon a structure under heavy attack to disarm a beacon even though they're the only one repairing it(letting the structure die from the attack instead).
- Idiots who don't report enemies in the base.
- Idiots who use exploits or break the game/server rules to win.
- Idiots who go for the top score at the expense of being useful.
|-- Especially those who think that having the top score means that they were useful... even if the team lost because they weren't defending.
- Idiots who think that being in a clan/squad/whatever means that they have more skill/experience than everybody else.
- Idiots who think that having 1337 skillz makes them a good player.
- Idiots who never change classes to adapt to a changing situation (I'm looking at you, snipers).
- Idiots who refuse to ever buy an engineer/tech, and would rather run out and die with a basic soldier when they're broke than help out by repairing for a while.
|-- Espeically if they have 350 and spend it on a Hummer/Buggy instead of a Hotwire/Tech.

- Idiots who think that "engineer" means "my bitch" and act like they should always be repaired first. You're the ones who I always repair last.
- Idiots who cut in front of an engineer/tech who's in the middle of repairing something/someone else.
|-- Especially if whatever/whoever they were repairing dies as a result.
- Cheaters.
|-- Cheaters who try to pretend they're not cheaters.

The sad thing is that there are probably a few dozen things I forgot about.

The sad thing is that there are probably a few dozen things I forgot about.
I will answer "yes" or "no" for each one if I did them or not and by how much:
1. never have. especially with the lock camera on turret mode (which i always use)
2. never. only "light" vehicles
3. i'd never do that and i never have
4. i stay in my vehicles. i never leave them ynless i need emergency repair
5. sometimes. rarely. usually only with infantry.
6. only when the enemy defenses are taken out and my teammates are assaulting the base. i use it as a quick transport.
7. never
8. never
9. that's what i tell other people not to do. i don't do it myself though
10. i don't do it, but my teammates do it a lot on mesa
11. never have done such a thing
12. i haven't, but i sometimes see other people do it
13. never

14. you're not the only one. that happens to me a lot too
15. never
16. very, very, very rarely
17. never
18. never
19. i always capitalize on a rush opportunity
20. never
21. i always defend the base when needed unless during one of our own APC rushes
22. i never leave my beacon
23. never ever have i cried HAX!!!
24. my teammates do that a lot. believe me, i know. i die a lot because of what my teammates do
25. does all free men count?
26. i don't
27. i rarely buy them, but it DOES work.
28. my teammates do that a lot. not me
29. never heard someone do that
30. never
31. some people have done that to me before. not me though
32. NEVER!
33. only someone REALLY lame would do that
34. i'm usually too busy shooting people trying to disarm the beacon. i definitely do it though eventually
35. never
36. i always do
37. don't know even HOW t break the rules
38. not me
39. definitely not me
40. i have WAY more than that
41. i ALWAYS change classes when needed
42. that's absurd!
43. i repair both. because think about it. if your fellow engineers died while they were defending a mammy because you never repaired them, then eventually no one would be able to repair the mammy
44. i only ever do that if an engineer is repairing something that has already full health or if i need WAY more repairs than the guy he's repairing
45. if you call "extra quantisfigon" a cheat, then yes i do.

Sorry everyone for this VERY LONG post. I just wanted to express my opinion.   lol

-Idiots that mine vehicles/inf
-Idiots who screw mining by remoting doors/inf/vehcs (altho the separate version for mines and remotes has appeared)
-Idiots who Team hamper
-Idiots who put remotes on stanks and refuze to blow them up
-Idiots who steal team vechs
-Idiots who sbh whore as soon as they get 400
-Idiots who speak dirty ALOT
-Kids that think that the are l33t

Yah i forgot many too but ur list is good

1) Never reveal identifying information about yourself.

- Do not post a picture of yourself
- Do not reveal your actual birthdate
- You are allowed to use incorrect birthdates
- Recommended you leave birthdate field blank...

muhahaha...........................

 exactly!
troop go take some iq tests i would like to laugth at the result and don't insult pawky he's nice to people and doesn't speak BS like someone who continuosly increases his post count by posting SHIT.

i hate people don't know mine limit
i place mine perfect but other people in team destroy it and will make us lose and i must place mine again and again until i can't assault

Yeah, that annoys me too. I make up for it by mining only the essentials and leaving some breathing room in the limit, so if someone goes mine-happy they might not bypass the limit and mess my setup.

Oh my god, the gay love going on in this thread before VIOLENT DAUGHTER's post makes me embarrassed to come to these forums. Holy shit.

ya know what I hate? When some fucking noob goes and steals your vehicle (on the servers where you can't lock your vehicle) and your repairing the damn thing and they get in it and run off to blow themselves up!!!
