I like the game in one way but not in another, Takes the RA universe and turns it into generals universe. But I loved the new tank and weapon ides. I like the coop choose when your playing SP. One thing I did not like is how close your screen view is to the units I wish I could zoom out more. The major thing I don't like is having another CP on your side, while i'm getting ready the cp helping you has more tank then i build during the whole match taking all of my money. Its fucked up, I cant even get shit ready cause of them. One thing aswell That i like is having a hot ass girl with huge tits being there the whole game telling you what to do (russian side) Shes talking and im to busy checking her out haha.

Im not done with the game yet but seeing some things I thought ill post this,
Discuss your thoughts on the game if you have played it.

I was tempted to buy it then torrent it so I don't have to deal with DRM (I'd pay for RA3, I'd refuse to pay for the DRM though). But, my disk drive sucks monkey balls and refuses to play anything post-Renegade.

Does anyone know if Intel 92945G Express Chipset Family would work with RA3?

Damn, same situation. I have Crysis and C&C3 here, can't play either until I get a decent card. Most decent cards need a PCI-E slot, which my motherboard doesn't have. >.>

Knowing EA it would not surprise me.

PS. RA3 works with my crappy intel video card that my laptop has, it's the Intel GMA950(220MB, shared memory, or something like that), if your video card has at least 128MB of memory I would say try it.

Well, reminding you that at my last check, legitimate ownership of games is the official stance here - I'm a little bit up/down about it myself.

I bought it, thought I'd give it a shot.

The camera zoom REALLY annoys me - you can't see more than like 3 foot away from your units, and that's a little annoying.

I'm intrigued by the different builds by the three different factions - Classic C&C for Allies, Generals for the Soviets and quasi-Protoss for the Japanese... will be interesting to see the pros/cons in online play

Though I've only played Allies/Soviets rigorously, so far the Soviets seem to have a massive edge defence-building-ly...

I'll finish up the campaigns and test the online waters soon and see if it's just a RUSH game or if it's actually going to be tactical.

Thats because you have a CRACKED version which is broken and you can't get past the 6th mission with Soviets and the 3rd with Allies.

Imo this is the one of the most laziest games, Allies = USA from Generals + some C&C3, and a very similar build system from Generals, pretty much exact money collecting system(made worse) from Generals(These 2 things I hated to start with), and one big flaw in the storyline: if Einstein was killed how can the Allies still have the Chronosphere?

Regardless though, it looks fun. I just haven't got around to playing it. I may someday.

That's like asking, "If Thomas Edison died, how can we still have the light bulb?!"

While I understand what you mean, that was a terrible analogy. Mostly, because the Soviets apparently went back in time to stop the creation of the chronosphere. Your analogy comes off as if it's saying "Thomas Edison died, didn't he? And the lightbulb still exists!".

I just bought RA3 Premier Edition today and found out I was lucky enough to get a 19 character serial, now I get to spend some time with EA support oh joy, and the soundtrack that was included: all the songs are unlabeled and there is a crackling sound at the beginning of every song.

It's pathetic when a pirated game is much better than the bought one.

The last part is a number. It takes what like five seconds to go through 10 digits and guess it?

No, it's either a number or a letter, and if it's like any other game with a serial, if you get it wrong you have to restart the entire process of typing it in without copy and paste. So worst case scenario you end up spending half an hour typing out a serial. Good job EA

Since when did RA become about girls and sex? I mean there 2 really hot girls per side and there three sides like in that poster it shows all the hot girls, I forgot about the Russians but I bet the game all three sides and in the china the girl is in a bikini and invites you to go relax with her, and in the Americans they show the blond girl in some low cut thin white dress and invites you to her house and so does tanya with a black dress, and lol I think its cool. also if you read about natasha

http://www.cncgames.com/redalert3_pics/RA3_NatashaSigned.jpg

she is a WWA fighter how cool.
