Any type of rush is epic. But I prefer light tanks because they are faster

1. Decoy suicide inf or buggy (on nod obviously), while it takes agt's fire upon itself inf can easily pass (ofc for a short period of time, but enough on field)

2. Might not be considered as a "tactic", or maybe not allowed, but when some whore really pisses me off, i place loads of timed's on the front of my vech and ram him.

3. Friendly rush

- 1) Med rush. When this is done properly it becomes C&C 95 style.
- 2) APC rush. Always is fun to do these. They are like a mission which requires you to get out and go inside the enemy buildings.
- 3) Infantry rushes. Stealth is always fun. Chem rushes are funny when they work and so are SBH rushes.

- 1) Chem Sprayer rush
- 2) 5mph mammys rush (15 mammys on Jelly Marathon)
- 3) Charging into a building that is under heavy fire with a Mobius (or group of them) and slaughtering all the repairers

SBH rush, because it's rare that they work, but when it DOES work, it's fucking fun.

Stank rush, because it's fun to see the enemy team get taken by surprise.

Sydney/Ravashaw rush. Because it's fun seeing a shitton of vehicle and infantry raping lasers constantly go off.

1. mammy rush: the look on the enemy's faces when they realized they're so fucked now
2. arty rush: when you decide you've done enough camping and those 4 arts rush the agt
3. hottie / techy rush: the satisfaction of sneaking by everyone and killing a building

1. Stank rush, the earlier the better
2. Pounding one building then switching when you've drawn in all their engies/techs
3. A lot of LCG to chew up the tanks at your door
