As a LOT of long-time-players confirm a massiv drop of player numbers in last months + drop of fun (and I agree with this), I have to say too: soon there will be no more need for TT, because Ren is dying.

May be, the split of community n00bstories/EXODUS is reducing the motivation of TT management too....

The big problem here is that TT is indirectly competing with Renegade-X. The Ren-X team has been incredibly forthcoming about what they're doing, and what they intend to do, as well as constant updates and communication with people within the community. Contrast that with TT's policy of keeping things on the Dee-ElI, and general lack of updates when compared to Ren-X, and you get impatience.

I wouldn't say it's directly or indirectly competing with us - both mods have some very different goals. We're a UT3 mod, and will probably appeal more to those who have UT3, while TT is a C&C Renegade mod and will appeal to everyone who has played Renegade. I for one will definitely be playing both as both would have a lot to offer.

Though you do have a good point concerning the updates. TT needs to put up constant and official updates every month or so. I'm not talking about input from a random member and things like that, but instead, some actual news threads, podcasts, more pictures, and an official "what's done/what's left to do" list. This is the best way to keep the community tracking your progress, and keep the word spreading & hype growing about this huge C&C Renegade project.

With updates, the Renegade communities and server groups have something to look forward to and a reason to keep their servers up and keep people playing longer than they normally would. Without them, people will lose hope and continue to post threads like this one.

A significant amount of people I have talked with don't believe TT will ever be completed, which is a problem because they have no hope for C&C:Renegade's future and thus stop playing it.

I think if there were regular updates this wouldn't be the case.

Then again: posting about code isn't really an appealing sight either, compared to the screenshots RenX can post. IMO it's time to start wrapping up what's done and forget about what's not done for the moment. I understand this is difficult, though, due to elements not being separated from each other.

1.) U can type the name of the new community without getting the word substituted by this silly failodus: it's exodus.

There were times people got banned from this forum just for typing the name. Well, may be it will happen again g

2.) During the incident Crimson in persona did thought about stopping payment for her servers. n00bstories lost a lot (i would say the majority) of the old players. Ok, now some of them play there again. But it was a dramatic drop in fun, playercount, future perspective for game. So, everyone thinking such incidents will have no impact on motivation of the development team, is naive.

3.) The split of the community produces now a drop in gaming fun. A lot of the old players are now really afraid, ren is dying right now. And this is not the usual blabla about ren dying. If nothings happens rly fast, TT will come to late, if it will be released some day. If....

4.) RenX will definitely be released and will split the rest of the community again.

It's not exactly policy, tbh there is no real policy on anything, except that whatever you commit to svn should be tested and should (appear to) work.

Because of the many rewrites (reverse engineering of asm code) and stuff it's rather hard to just release it like that. While it might be a little bit faster, it will then also create new bugs which could cause an even faster player decrease.

A n00bstories "split" is a really bad term to use. In truth, a very small percentage of the players stole my server nickname for my marathon server and put their own anti-NS server up (LOL), Jelly refuses to even respond to me to tell me that he let them have it (real classy). Our player count dropped (on average) 1-2% compared to the month before that but has since recovered and actually increased. We have retrained a few awesome new staff members to replace the mods that left and now we have another new server up in another awesome game and we're only a couple of weeks away from a whole new website rebuilt from scratch.

Furthermore, n00bstories donated $200 to the RGCT for prizes and much more is on the way.

As for TT, whenever the guys give me something that you guys will understand, I post it. Rebuilding an outdated game engine doesn't provide much in the way of eye candy. We're trying to keep Renegade the way it was intended to be played without making drastic changes so that it can be a seamless (but awesome) migration.

By design, TT can not possibly split the community in half the way that remaking the game as a mod on another engine would if it came out. Our patch HAS to be an all-or-nothing proposition. If EA makes the patch official, they will only do so if the community is on board with it. It has to be iron-clad. Now, we don't want all our hard work to go to waste, so once we have something we can start beta testing with the players, your feedback will allow us to tweak the patch and fix any bugs that might come up to make you happy, because if you're not happy, it can't come out. Hence, by design, it can't kill the community because it won't come out unless you like it.

Jelly does whatever he wants to do. Maybe one day you'll make a mistake, like I did, and write something he doesn't like and end up without a high listed nickname. Ironically, my community was the one using a00000002 back in the days...

All I want to say is that you shouldn't expect anything from him, and just be happy with whatever he allows you to have.

Who are you to decide which community deserves the hostname more, if it isn't even your hostname to begin with?

Anti-NS? The way I see it, people left your community, then started their own, seperate community.

Also.. your server nickname? Did you even use it back then? When a new community was formed on that nickname (Exodus, or should I say faildus/exofail because you like filtering it to that, really good job on deleting that poll btw) you instantly wanted to put up a marathon server on that nickname, probably just to stop us.

Also, for the record, this is how I see it, and this does not reflect Exodus' view on things (Even though they might feel the same about it, but yeah).

That's entirely false. I had a n00bstories Marathon server on that nickname. A couple NS admins were running it on n00bstories' behalf, so they had access to the username/password that Jelly allowed me to use. When they got mad at me, they renamed the server and made it their own even though n00bstories had been granted permission to use that nickname, not a brand-new community. Jelly had previous rejected requests from more established and long-standing communities such as Black Intel and Black Cell and probably others in favor of n00bstories continuing to use the nickname. However, Jelly has been ignoring my PMs on forums and IRC and won't even give me a simple "yes, I let them use it." So, until I hear that, it's simple for me or anyone using any sort of logic to consider the nickname STOLEN.

It's no different than if I owned a chain of restaurants and opened a new one in a prime downtown location that I negotiated a great lease on with the owner, and I hired some people to run the store and be managers of it, and then they changed the sign on the door and kept all the money for themselves.

In the real world, I would have grounds for legal action and would sic my lawyer on them. In Renegade-land, I have no recourse at all.

That's a pretty thin argument. I never said I "decide" who gets what hostname. Jelly decides since he owns all the top ones except the one I use for the main n00bstories server and any others he has given away permanently that I'm not aware of. As far as 'deserving', that's more of a general community feeling. If I created a public poll as to who 'deserved' that nickname, I don't see faildus winning that poll.

I'm glad you found it amusing. However, that wasn't my intent. With the limited number of players still available, people are a rare and valued asset, at least as far as running a Renegade server is concerned. Businesses pick locations to try and make the most money, though businesses all have their own ways of making money. High host names are far and above the best way to attract the most amount of players in this particular game.

Hence:

Restaurant customers : money :: Renegade players :: goal of owning a server

I'm not sure how many of you guys have taken your SATs or learned analogies yet but now the metaphor of restaurants has been explained completely, hopefully you will stop laughing and start realizing my point.

And once again, having one high nickname doesn't make it OK to steal the other one. If people used that logic, it would be OK to steal money because people have more in the bank, or OK to kill a baby if the parents have another one. I do not subscribe to such failures of logic.

At least we're using that nick "that could be used by someone who deserves it more", instead of just keeping it under the dust to prevent other communities to use it. That was left unused for years, and now all of a sudden you need it? Nice timing...

But anyway, yeah, 2 jelly admins told us that jelly agreed to let us use it. That's enough for us to keep using it without any worries.
But I can understand how you may feel, waiting for 2 months for jelly's reply...that reminds me about how things worked in my previous community...

Way to leave out facts about those threads.

They were not made by any member of staff, it is the regular players who have made such topics and as we aren't nazi's we tend to let people have their opinions.

Those accounts of why we left? You even admitted in an irc chat to what you and luv2pb did etc, so how are we making anything up when you admit to doing what we have reported.

Honestly it doesn't surprise me though that you leave out important information in order to make it seem like we are in the wrong.

Funny, as I have heard that your Marathon server back in the day didnt quite work out and was kind of empty, so it started being used for Comm wars and was passworded. I actually think that server was ran on my box.

With that in mind, the N00bstories Marathon server being empty a lot more then the Exodus Crimson wrote on Mon, 17 August 2009 17:26Quote:Prulez wrote on Mon, 17 August 2009 12:47Also.. your server nickname? Did you even use it back then? When a new community was formed on that nickname (Exodus, or should I say faildus/exofail because you like filtering it to that, really good job on deleting that poll btw) you instantly wanted to put up a marathon server on that nickname, probably just to stop us.

Thanks for answering this question, it is highly appreciated. Comparing Renegade hostnames to real world restaurant chains made me laugh, thanks for sharing that.

I'm glad you found it amusing. However, that wasn't my intent. With the limited number of players still available, people are a rare and valued asset, at least as far as running a Renegade server is concerned. Businesses pick locations to try and make the most money, though businesses all have their own ways of making money. High host names are far and above the best way to attract the most amount of players in this particular game.

Thanks for sharing that common Reneknowledge, I wasn't able to figure that out myself, thanks!

Crimson wrote on Mon, 17 August 2009 17:26I'm not sure how many of you guys have taken your SATs or learned analogies yet

Sorry, I follow the Dutch school system, so I didn't take them, I'm very sorry, does this make me a bad person?

Crimson wrote on Mon, 17 August 2009 17:26And once again, having one high nickname doesn't make it OK to steal the other one. If people used that logic, it would be OK to steal money because people have more in the bank, or OK to kill a baby if the parents have another one. I do not subscribe to such failures of logic.

If 2 Jelly admins (As stated in a few posts above) confirm to us that this hostname is OK to be used by us, then why shouldn't we?

Oh yeah, also, we deserve it more, as I said a bit before and our community thinks we deserve it anyways, as deserving is just a community feeling.

Rearranging facts and exaggerating facts makes them stop being facts and start being fiction.

Once again, I could not possibly care less if a Jelly admin told YOU anything. I care about and believe what they tell ME.

From your opinion, Jelly's hostname got stolen by us. If 2 Jelly admins give us the Go-Ahead, why should we wait for your approval to start profiting, if I may call it so, because a restaurant is to make money, and a server to gain players, and common Reneknowledge and your post tells us exactly that a high hostname helps a lot with that, from the hostname that we are allowed to use?

You're saying we stole it while that is not true at all. Also, I still wonder what the fictional accounts thing was based on, and I would like to see some reasoning and explanation behind that.

OK, I don't have the time to follow everything going on anymore hence I haven't read these forums in like 6 months.

That hostname was on loan, with the knowledge it could be called back anytime. The hostname Crimson uses on here main server is different.

Anyway, as far as i could see that hostname wasn't used in ages, I was going to set it up as a clanwar server.

There's a bust-up in the ranks at NS, I get asked if exodus can use the name, I said yeah no problem as it wasn't being used, and if it was it seemed to be a reaction to the split to use the name out of spite.

So to make it clear, yes I said they can use the name. Your politics between the communities are your business, i couldn't give a flying fuck what happened or what will happen.

As for me, this is the first time i logged in in ages, and it will be the last. I didn't come here to debate or argue, as i really don't care that much. I came to remove any doubt.

Peace.

That's right, he has sanctioned it. I think it's a big disservice to other communities who have contributed a lot to the game over the years and those who are developing new and cool stuff for the game, but maybe I'm the only one who thinks so. It reminds me why people get so upset about a00 in the first place, when the one guy who owns them all can decide he doesn't give a shit about Renegade anymore and just take the easy road and give a nick to the first guy who asks and already happens to have the password.

At least now that two months later I finally have confirmation that Jelly said it was OK for them to keep the nickname they stole I can move on from that. The money I had earmarked for the last two months of hosting the second server was donated to the RGCT anyway.

Well, duh... that's because we had just started it up. We do "marathon weekends" on the main server and there were many requests to do marathon more often, so we put a second server up on the nickname that we had used for a sniper server, a fan maps server, and sometimes no server... the marathon server was the most success we'd had since back in the day when we used to host 8 servers that were mostly full all day and it had just started to take off when it was so rudely stolen.

I can't express how brilliant an idea having regular updates is.

Despite the fact that it will be hard to make EA make it official and that it will be hard to release in different parts doing this would keep people interested in renegade and stop it from dying out

^This is on topic so i think your moving it over to another forum was rather silly as this is an idea to consider for TT however I know you won't for several reasons.

off topic-if this was to be done then there wouldn't actually be any need to fight as people with scripts 3.4.4 show servers with the highest ranking ingame player count rather than highest ranking name so the fact that "your" host nick was stolen would hardly matter. Also Crimson you should set up a marathon server as really even if the host nick isn't high ranking people will recognize and play in it. All this arguing about stealing the nick is silly, it is equivelant to arguing over who gets to take a bag of lollypops(or burgers)

TBH, what do you expect then? You're a group of people that split from NS because you disagreed with how they acted, and while doing this you probably took a certain number of their regular members with them. What do you expect them to do? Say: "hey guys, good luck, tell us when you need some help!" Moreover what you did with the hostname may have been done technically correctly (as in: you went to Jelly and got it), but it seems to me all but politically correct.

Then afterwards you come on this forum, which is a place for the community but owned and financed by Crimson to spit venom about NS by posting information from private subforums. It seems your idea was to either make NS look bad or try to convince more of their members to join your community.

And then you seem to be surprised that NS isn't happy about you and "will try to sabotage you where possible"? It seems like a very normal reaction to me and maybe something you should have thought of a few months ago instead of complaining about it now. All actions have consequences that you need to foresee. Noone is ever possible to foresee all consequences, but these ones were kind of evident, no?

That being said, I don't want to take any position on the actual "who was right / wrong" discussion, because I don't care. But when I read things as stupid as the post before, then I feel I need to react.

As far as I know, but correct me if I'm wrong because I've never bothered to know much about ren's history, she wanted to run this forum for the community, she wasn't asked to do so. What bothered us (and I know for sure it's the same feeling for lots of server owners) is that she's using this forum, which is meant to be run for all communities, for her own community's interests. I can agree on what you said, Goztow, but only if what's happening here happened on NS's forums (which happened).

We couldn't promote our community/server here because she used that word filter to change exodus to faildus/exofail, and that worked for URLs too, so we couldn't even link our forums. Now I now that this is owned by her, but this should be a place for everyone involved in Renegade, not for only the ones that she like.

She also never miss a chance to to spread lies (or her own truth) to everyone here, even when it wasn't needed. The shit started on this thread was because she had to make fun of us once again, without a real need.

If you know our reasons why we left NS, you should also understand how WE feel when this happens. That happened for a mix of reasons, one of which was her insulting and arrogant behavior against us, and seeing that happening again for no reason here, made me post all this stuff.

So yeah I can understand how she might feel, but you should also understand how WE feel on this matter too. It's not a one way street, and if this forum was ran as she said it is, then we wouldn't have our name banned from here or our posts/threads deleted.

How should we feel?

We're not surprised that this shit happens, we're just sick of being constantly insulted by her, even after we left her community also because of that.

So yeah I won't expect you to take a position, but also think about how we feel when she throws shit on us, not only how she might feel.

You're going to say people are copying your server's features over any thing you see that can resemble something that's running on your server? Little bit paranoid uh? To really look different in your eyes we'll have to run a different game I guess, because you'll always going to find something similar...next thing would be we use same brenbot version..

Excuse me... nice word twisting and exaggerating. Too bad for you I'm not that dumb. I said that the server was started with almost the same settings. You guys have changed a few things over the last two months. You only need to look at your own forums to see your users complaining about the lack of features, specific features that only NS has. It's good that you guys are trying to be your own people now but your actions from the past day have shown that you still haven't grown up.

i'm glad that you visit our forums, but the lack of features is uhm...normal for a new server...so you're just stating the obvious there...

How do you expect us to run all the stuff you made in years from day 1? maybe by stealing it, of course, but we didn't steal anything so we had to build everything from the ground up, and we did it in a month, so yeah I'm pretty proud of what everyone did in our community, and shows how wrong you were when you never trusted any of us to work on stuff for your server.

Keep on lying, guys. There are LOTS of people I don't like that are allowed to post here and advertise their shitty servers so long as they follow the forum rules. I'm not going to name them, but most of them know who they are.

YOU GUYS advertised yourselves by posting links to private forum posts. If ANY member of this forum posted confidential, protected information, it would and has been deleted. This includes warez, source code to cheats, personal information like phone numbers and addresses of people who do not agree to have them posted. When any other community or person was dealing with a huge security breach that leaked onto here (such as Reborn private betas leaked), they are REMOVED and the violators are banned. But you didn't stop there, did you? No, you made more and more accounts to try and post but I had turned on new account approvals so they all sat in the approval queue and you were never able to use them to continue to break forum rules.

To further illustrate my point, when arnyswart posted about your boys vs. girls tourney (which is ironically the same tournament that started this mess), the post was allowed to remain on the forum (right here at <http://www.renegadeforums.com/index.php?t=msg&th=34012&start=0&rid=8> where you left it) because it followed the forum rules. Your URL is in the link in that thread and it was not censored or filtered as you claimed it was.

I have been assured that the same treatment would be applied to any community that posts private information from other peoples forums. I hope that this never happens to me, but if it does I believe Crimson when she says it would be dealt with just as promptly and ferociously; You have to give someone like Crimson the benefit of the doubt, after all of her personal time and money pumped into renegade. Not to mention how much she has helped others (server rentals anyone?; enormous amount of trust went into that).

I very much do my best to understand both point of views, and I was one of the first people to ask Crimson for more information on this very touchy subject of the status of renforums in the Renegade community. One could even say I questioned what happened in a private subforum, as I always like to get to know both sides of the story.

I agree that at certain moments, this wasn't handled very well by both sides. IMO it would have been healthier to have the discussion once and for all in a strictly moderated topic (hey, isn't that what's happening just now in here?).

At the end of the day, there have been some serious communication mistakes from both sides, which made this whole thing look much worse than it was with regards to renforums.com, from the view of an outsider. I dare to state that my intervention didn't go unnoticed, this topic being the main proof of this.

Communicating efficiently and correctly is a very hard thing to do, especially if you're not used to (having to) do it. I suggest now that both sides gave their point of view, that you take some time to look back and check out what further discussion can gain for you. If you both decide that the other won't change their mind and that there's no "solution" to this "problem", then I'm convinced it would be better to stop replying with the same arguments.

If Exodus is to have their place in the community, then these forums should become open towards them sooner or later, but probably after the shit fest ended. If I may give you one hint though, to make this happen faster: change your community's name.

I'm not entirely sure what's gone on, nor do i care.

But reading through this thread, the most pathetic thing i can see is Crimson (and anyone else that's said it as a way of demeaning exodus) saying 'faildus' instead of 'exodus'.

It's damn right childish.

I mean, why do you have a problem with saying 'exodus'?

What would you do if they started calling your server 'fail stories' (which actually makes more sense than simply changing the exo of exodus to fail)?

Edit:

In fact, this thread shows exactly what will kill renegade, and that's communities competing for players instead of working together.

As an ideal game, there would be servers of different types only, and then more servers coming along when the player count in that type is constantly too high.

If communities are constantly splitting renegade will only die.

You are exactly right. There is no need for any new servers and definitely no need to try and split a community up. Faildus' only real achievement was to bring Renegade closer to the death we don't want it to reach.

Communities fighting like this is going to kill renegade, actually. Having 1000s of servers on the list is hardly going to have an effect as most people almost always order it by the server nickname. It's communities fighting, like this. I don't see why everyone has such a big ego that they desperately seek to validate. Why don't you just do the more mature thing and accept that some of your community members have started their own little community. Whatever they say is hardly going to budge your reputation, most people who post here struggle to keep drool off their keyboards. Let alone actually care about something like this.

If you are angry about losing a nickname that you don't really own, take that up with the owner of it in PM rather than creating drama here.

Call me a hypocrite for saying so? I would just as easily do the same back Personally i connect use renegade resurrection and order the servers by player count.

Saying that though, the times i do go in game i go on n00bless, which is favoured and always appears at the top, unless it's empty, which i either go in a sniper, or coop server or something or not at all anyway.

It takes 2 to argue, and I see no pointless administrator abuse from the exodus community. Sure, they can do it on their own dead forums if they want. No one will be affected though, unlike here. this is ridiculous the split was actually a good thing for the renegade community, stop being childish and get on with doing important stuff even if that "important" stuff is improving your renegade community. Nothing useful will come of this discussion as Crimson doesn't want to take anything useful from it.

Why, that doesn't sound like "no reason" at all! In fact that sounds like a fairly serious offense! The CIA assassinates people for less.

Keep our fanboys on a leash?

Sorry but no one from the staff is going out and sending people here with the intent of saying these things.

Secondly we don't suppress peoples opinions. If those people have a problem with you, then they have every right to bring it forward.

Just because you have a beef with the exodus staff doesn't mean all people who associate with our server should be "kept on a leash".

Lastly I didn't even see the post that had been removed as you seem oh so quick to remove these things.

dover stop posting, your lack of understanding of anything makes you look ridiculously stupid.

If you really had anything important to say you would keep it on the topic at hand and not go on about "exodus and our enforcing of bans", which has nothing at all to do with any of this.

All it shows is that you have no decent argument whatsoever.

I don't believe he was "retracting his words or distancing himself from his opinion", but I don't think he was agreeing with them either. Why are you so fast to base it off that?

Also, I am very sorry that we are not nazi's and that we allow our forum members to say in other forums about the way they feel. If I posted something about Atomix in here, a community I barely even know and is not involved in this at all, and you disagree, will you also be like "LAL ATOMIX IS BAD NOW LUL!!1!11!11!!", even though I wouldn't be representing them at all?

Perhaps it's because it's hard to convey tone and mood over the internet, but my intention isn't to "shit across the room". I'm just pretty tired of this latest barrage of ReneDrama. You're right that I don't know all of the circumstances, but in nine situations out of ten, the thread-starter (In the case of the other thread) or the thread-derailer (In this case) is to blame for the resulting drama. In this case, it's this rrutk guy, and the Exodus community is apparently backing him up.

Like you said, I don't know the circumstances. For all I know, they could be right and could have a legitimate grievance, but I do know they definitely aren't handling themselves well.

If it's the map overlay I'm thinking of, I'm pretty sure the map overlay in question is unreleased for a version since it's considered a borderline cheat by some. My guess would be that's why your PM system is disabled -- You were using it to acquire borderline hacks.

Yet, you do agree with him, don't you? You certainly aren't retracting his words or distancing yourself from his opinion. Exodus's position is being made pretty clear.

bad job twisting my words, the fact that i agree with those words isn't relevant, I was talking about you and Crimson accusing us to have started shit here because OP is registered on our forums:

Dude, Dover, I really don't understand why you're going to bat for NS over this, when your understanding of the situation is limited. If you want to support NS, the best way to do it is to just observe. You're basing many of your assumptions on nothing, much like the OP of the thread claiming NS stopped people from playing in a game with Exodus members.

If you notice in the 'childish behaviour' thread, a couple Exodus administrators, Ethenal and Prulez stated that rrutk2 doesn't speak for the entire Exodus community, just as you or I don't speak for the entire NS community. As such, it's not their business to censor what he says or does.

As for the criticism directed towards Crimson from some Exodus members, it pertains mainly to their time as moderators and adminsitrators in n00bstories, and once again, neither of us have any real idea of what was going on behind the scenes before the breakup.

Do yourself, and NS a favour and just stand back, because as you've said yourself, you're basing your posts on assumptions, which are only fanning the flames more.

Infact, renegadeforum is run by a person exploiting the plattform for own purposes, suppressing advertizement or even telling the name of other communities. Peopled were banned for this, access to their PM-system was denied.

This is not the way it should be run.

yeah thats what rene drama makes people have to do...

and when they see the light of day they realise they can have a life outside the computer... then they get a bottle of booze, go to a party get laid... get a gf and move on...

and then we complain about lower player count, its all interconnected.

maybe its time to move on? before we all have to go outside and get fresh air. lol im pretty sure all the points that needed to be made are clear by now. Crimson owns these forums, she is obviously going to do what she pleases with them... dont want to sound like dover but i think that the way these forums are run is not going to change any time soon.

I am fairly sure that there are video clips on youtube aswell with music that has not been authorized to be there! Block youtube. And, while your at it, I heard that that also applies to Google Video! And guess what.. Digg probably has links aswell to other websites with warez, though I don't see you blocking those websites either.

If you're going to go that way, then do it properly. Just because we choose to run our forums in a different way then you would, and enforce rules differently (Even if that may affect you and your community), then why would you block only ours, and not the websites that I listed above?

There has been no link to private information posted DIRECTLY, nor do I see a direct link to a thread/post on our forums that has that in them, because if that was the case, then I would understand, though I see no such thing has happened, and especially not from Exodus representatives.

No, I would actually prohibit things like that to be posted and remove it, but it would be kind of odd to remove posts that contains a link to the explanation behind the split that caused the community to be created... correct?

Also, I still see that I can link to google, maybe you'll want to remove that aswell? As it is indexing our forum right now, it might also index the private information!

I'm starting to see a trend here...most of you feel that Crimson is biased towards her community, or you feel that the community should be able to make more decisions on how renforums is ran. Unfortunately this domain is registered to Crimson. EA no longer owns this domain and is considered like a fan site, and is owned by Crimson. Crimson can do whatever she wants and ban any other community or persons from this forum since she owns it. I'm not sure why some of you feel like you are entitled to something when this isn't your website, but Crimsons. If Crimson wants to ban everyone and shut down this website, she can.

I find it hilarious that all of you are arguing thinking that you were wronged and feel renforums is discriminating or being biased. If crimson wants to use RenForums to promote n00bstories, then she can since she owns this forum and domain. You, or EA do not own/operate this forum and Crimson can do whatever she wants with it.

If I owned this forum and all of you came into MY forum and attacked me the way you attack Crimson or came to just start trouble, I would simply just ban you since it's MY forum.

NOTE: If there was a contract signed between EA and Crimson in regards of this forum being ran a certain way, then I take back my words. Otherwise get over it people, it isn't your forum.

EA never owned this domain. The RenegadeForums.com domain is owned by me and was always owned by me. RenForums.com was purchased by someone else who was going to "compete" with me but once Westwood agreed that I should be responsible for them, they transferred the domain to me. They, in fact, only owned it for a few days, maybe a week.

EA and I have NO contract whatsoever, nor did I have any such contract with Westwood.

Christine,

I like the URL "renegadeforums.com", as well as your persistence in the community. I think you're the best bet for the renegade community moving forward. How fast can you get the URL "http://www.renegadeforums.com" operational and pointing to your message boards?

Please respond to me via censored.

Thanks.

The funny thing is, Westwood's intent was just for me to make the n00bstories.com forums the official ones for Renegade. However, I felt it was in the best interest of the community to make a separate forum. So, Blazer and I spent the better part of 2 days to use a script made by the late DOM_TreyD to migrate the majority of the posts from the Westwood-hosted forum over to a new one that I skinned to look like Westwood's UBB Forum. We were not able to have the user accounts because of legal reasons, but since the forum we set up look so much like "home", we got hundreds of signups in the first few days and never looked back.

Sorry, but that is wishful thinking. I think you'll have your eyes opened more when you take Business Law 101 in college. Then you'll realize how dumb all these posts are.

k, inform me, if the title of the forums goes under the name Official renegade forums, it should mean that any community with good intentions should be able to come here and share indiscriminately as long as they don't post private information and follow the other rules. wouldnt that be considered a form of fraud if its advertised as the official forum but some people that haven't broken the rules are getting discriminated against?

and sorry, my Business Law 101 is a little foggy, took it in fall of 06

I do agree with everything except the "fraud" part which I believe to be an overstatement

There is no crime in calling a forum "official" when there is no alternative. The official is merely just an advertising gimmick and nothing more. No where on these forums does any moderator, or the owner, act as if they are representing EA directly. Until I see that, then I think the accusations against these forums are still invalid.

I don't quite understand why people are trying to extort, and manipulate, Crimson in trying to get what they want. Your rights to advertise or even post on here is out of the sole courtesy of Crimson since she owns it.

I don't think this has anything much to do with EA. Instead, it's more that this forum is generally for the entire Renegade community and people would come in here thinking all interests should be represented. We can't exactly blame them for having that reasonable expectation. shrugs Agreed. We are still at the mercy of Crimson since she owns it. I think she has been more than fair to a lot of people who have used this forum. Just go through all the threads/posts and you will find people who probably should be removed from these forums but are not.

so that means this isn't an official renegade forum and it's just n00bstories2. I think most people/communities won't have posted here if they knew that, and it's also interesting that after 8 pages of discussion and years of lifetime of this forum, it needed a person outside crimson's staff to make that clear, and she only admitted that now.

This could have been solved much earlier if only she told us that before, I think everyone thought that this was the official renegade forum, but this really changes things.

Are you kidding? People who were here when it all started were aware of that. I made it a separate forum out of the goodness of my heart and because I thought it would be better for the game rather than people just being a part of n00bstories.

well the title on my browser says otherwise:

you might want to change that into something more realistic, as "official" really sounds like the owner of the game gave you permission to run the forum, otherwise every community could add that in their forums.

This forum's title won't change because you ask for it. It's been like this for the last years and will stay so. It's everyone's liberty to choose what they understand under "official". For me it's the "as official as it'll get"-renegade forums.

Posting in three topics about the same thing is getting confusing. Moreover, I don't see much valuable coming out of this topic anymore.
