hud.ini is only used for custom hud's. If you havent got a custom hud (or customized colors or w/e)
you dont have an hud.ini file

No. The only one in always.dat is hud_main.dds (That you can skin), Not an hud.ini (If I am correct)

Well if i wasnt clear enough i'll make it a bit clearer

If you have the default HUD then you don't have an hud.ini file. This means there isn't one in always.dat too
