I finally finished working on my new product, called Sla Server Browser Compact (is a connect tool for Command & Conquer Renegade only)

 This tool doesn't get any server list, but you can modify the server list like you want and add your favorite servers, currently i added most important servers witch i think most peoples likes them (Jelly-Server Marathon, n00bstories and exodus co-op) -- side note: if you don't like them, you can remove them, are just default for first time start.

 The idea with this tool come from RenIP, but i wanted something more simple and fast , so here is.

 This tool runs on any Windows (exception 95/98/ME because they the sys tray plugin doesn't work with them)

 Features:
  - runs in background (on sys tray)
  - easy to use and change options
  - not many buttons
  - rapid server connect
  - you can make it to start with windows (me i did this already)

 if you found any bug please report. thanks.

I just use an app launcher widget on the desktop with shortcuts for each of the servers I like to join. No need to run extra applications in the background then.

It's a good concept though, I am sure there will be people who find it useful.

Tbh, it would need a link to a central db which you keep up to date, so that the ip and port auto changes when a server changes ip or port.

RenDirCon does the exact same thing, seems pointless.

Again, RenDirCon does just about everything that your tool does. It seems pointless.

Oh I didn't want to say it before, because I like the fact that people still care about developing for Renegade, and I like what hes doing... but I top all your suggestions. Rene-Buddy will replace the main server menu for renegade. It will mimmick connecting to WOL and will not need direct connect to join a game. I finally figured it out 8 months ago but I have a dev job and a fiance.... gots no time to finish.

Renip does the same thing except it doesn't have pre defined servers... I don't see why you have made this.

"Nice" another app that does exactly the same as 5643653424389 other apps except it has the most useless addition of running when you absolutely not need it. It's not like it's any harder to start the program than to get it out of systray.

first, is compact version two, is just a tool for connecting three, if you don't like it, don't comment

First, you're an idiot.
Second, "Sla Company" is not a company.
Third, if you don't like our comments, don't comment.
Fourth, you're an idiot.

I was going to write out something that was less abrasive until I came to the realization that I would be wasting my time if I attempted to write eloquently. You don't seem to understand complex concepts like "Not being a moron" so I've dumbed down my attack on you so that you can hopefully understand it.

sla.ro(master) wrote on Mon, 25 July 2011 14:59first, is compact version

Which means... what exactly? Are the icons are smaller than normal so they are harder to click?

compact version of ssbc means doesn't download server list, is configured by user maybe i will work on next version who will have server list from gsa.
