I've tried several times to download script 4.0. When I do the box gives me C:/westwood/renegade as the location to save the script, but I'm not able to use the "next" button. When I try to browse for a location it doesn't work either. Can someone give me some help. Thanks

Mole

You'll need to point it to the correct install location, the location where Renegade is installed. Or you need to redownload the installer because there was a bug related to this, but has been fixed in the meanwhile.

With the browse button, then navigate to the directory where renegade is installed, then press ok/next and it should work.

Did you redownload the installer? You didn't say so and it was supposed to have been fixed with the new installer.
