When are the replacement web pages for creating a new account (when you press "New Account" in the WOL login prompt) etc gonna be done? They currently state that they aren't available yet.

Oh yes, we did redirect them, but haven't created the pages for it. Shouldn't take too much time me thinks, but need to make them. Will try to work on them this week.

Since EWD's weeks last over 365 days, I thought I'd put something slightly more useful on those pages. I haven't actually wrote any scripts to integrate the ladder and account creation and such, I just point users to the right location. As far as I know, the user will need to install TT to get the fixed URLs anyway, so they will likely already know what's on those pages now, but whatever.

If anyone has any (php) scripts to contribute to put something more useful on e.g. the ladder or account signup page, feel free to contact me and I'll put it on there. Same goes for if you have more useful content (text) to place on any of the pages. (FTR, pages are "create account", "ladder", "network status", "clans", and "news".)

With the release of the new C&C compilation, can we get at least maybe a rudimentary "Create Account" webpage so maybe we can benefit from the pack with some new players?

I don't think we can do more then a link to the XWIS website.
In order to make a page with full functionality, we'd need to link to the XWIS systems/forums, so unless we can cooperate with them or if they'd make it, there isn't much more we can do.
Also, is it still the case that those pages require that document prefix to work or has TT changed/removed that behavior?

Prefix in question was:
<!-- Certified Westwood Studios -->

On a sidenote: I would be interested in helping out if needed
