There's no need to list your server four times on GSA.

Owned by SODPaddy. Probably does it to gain players. 1 of them is GSA from BRenBot, another WOLSpy, and the other 2 are the SSGM GSA Plugins.

Well, if he doesn't fix the issue I'll contact GSA...

Who will promptly ignore you because they probably don't even remember what Renegade is, never mind that they are supposed to be hosting it's server listings.

Plus that server is not the only one doing that... a few entries down I see Tiberium Crystal War doing the exact same thing, whatever that is. Some sort of AOW mode with harvesters I assume...

I don't really mind a server being listed twice, but four is just ridiculous. The "they don't care" stuff counts for pretty much every game so it's worth a shot.

Oh, I don't tend to keep tabs on the active mods these days. Might suggest to him sometime that he adds [C&C3] or something to the title so people from GSA who haven't heard of it don't just try and join with stock Renegade.

I have no idea why the TCW server is listed twice there.
We have two servers running though.
Our public server and a testserver with newer updates for testing.
I don't think we can do anything about it...

Uh, The name of the server and The map it is running should be a dead give away that it isn't Renegade.

The name of the server means nothing to anyone who has never heard of the mod (as above, I thought it was something to do with fighting with harvesters) and with 4.0 maps auto-download so people might just assume it was some kind of fancy map type.

The same goes for the APB servers listing on there.

True, I didn't even spot that Gamma one on there, although the second entry does specifically say it's a test server, indicating it's not for normal players to join.
