It's a map.

I had to use a 4.0 script so you might need the scripts.

It's a map.

Do you think they figured out that it's a map yet?

it would be really neat and/or spiffy if you would take screenshots of your map and post them to let people know something about it or at the very least, a description roszek wrote on Sat, 07 April 2012 14:20It's a map.

oh shit, i missed this very informative description; please disregard my post

There was a huge screw-up that was overlooked in the map I uploaded.

I deleted the file and uploaded the fixed map to the original post.

Could you please upload a screenshot and edit your first post to display the screenshot?

he posted a download link to a bunch of screenshots in a .rar file the whole having-to-download-something-just-to-see-how-the-map-looks thing is a nuisance

I added an album link to the OP; should be easier then downloading the screen shots.

he still fails to grasp the concept roszek: put the pictures in your original post in [img] tags people don't want to download a photo album just so they can see what your map looks like they shouldn't have to download anything; do you get it now?

It's not that I didn't understand; just didn't feel the need.

Might be unusual but I think it is pretty smart to get some extra protection around your base

Cool map, I want to add this to my server if that's ok.
Trying to get it added to the repository for 4.0

Very cool map. We have it added to our server rotation now, played a couple of games on it now.
Awesome

I forgot about this map, it's quite unique looking. I wouldn't mind playing a round or two on it.
