ntation#Using_UltraAOW.27s_Public_Repository

The TTFS for the UberMapPack was updated today by me. It contains pretty much all of the new maps out there i believe.

See the wiki link above how to use it with your server.

Updated the repository to TT 4.0 Release Candidate 1:
TT 4.0 Beta 5 servers are no longer supported, you should update your server if you want to use the ttfs on game-maps.org

n#List_of_available_packages

Due to the nature of how Packageeditor works in 4.0 RC1 the way it works has changed.
You now have to enter a Package ID to Install a package/map.
You will have to find the map's corresponding ID in the list and then download that instead.

If you have any questions feel free to post them.

Why? Doesn't seem very serverowner friendly? Can't you put an HTTP redirect on the old location? Should work with TT so...

I don't update game-maps anymore, the domain is not used and it is suspended right now. Though that will be fixed, i have no further plans for that site. Other than taking it down completely i think this is a good alternative.

Yeah, we were trying to play some maps last night and couldn't figure out why nobody could download anything. Eventually I saw your domain was suspended

Thanks for putting it back up zunnie!

The list on the wiki isn't updated. I don't see maps like Snowfight2004 on it. And I have no clue which tpi package ID is it.

Goodluck with that, that's one of the maps I could never get converted.
The packageID is not inside their package.dat there(downloaded and did the list, nada). Strange how they have it in /files though.

Uploaded the version that used to be on game-maps, which I'd guess they'd used there.

File Attachments

1) C&C_Snowfight2004.zip, downloaded 381 times
