Okay, I never had this before but I am wondering what will win, lets say the score is
GDI: 4,000
NOD: 18,000

Gdi places a ion on the ped and it goes of who would win?

Is this a real question, like really?

If the score is

GDI: 200,000
Nod: 500

And Nod places a beacon and wins.

The score will end up being

GDI: 200,000
Nod: 200,001

When a team wins via base destruction if they are behind on points they are given several thousand, if that still isn't enough they get +1 on whatever the other team got.

If you ped or kill the base... you always win regardless of points.

That's actually quite fascinating. I assume it works like crazy bump?

EDIT: oh it's actually in photoshop. I am gonna check this out.

I've got a better question.

Say the score is whatever with GDI winning. If Nod ped beacons and GDI happens to kill off Nod's base at the same time, who wins?

There is a few seconds delay after you ped beacon to when the base dies.

So team who base killed would win.

Many years ago tried to test the blow the last building at same time thing with a pal and see which team won.
Was very random... guessing the mili seconds really count.

Therefore the odds of it ever being exactly the same time would be so high that we could never actually know.

If the score is

GDI: 200,000
Nod: 500

And Nod places a beacon and wins.

The score will end up being

GDI: 200,000
Nod: 200,001

the ped gets 50,000 for a "win" and the building kill is 750, it than takes (i think) 5 seconds for the

ped to be registered as "winner"

the score will still be
GDI: 200,000
Nod: 51,250

But Nod will win.

ped just means MUDKIPS wins by points
even if he's not involved in the game in any way
