You're kidding right? The words pathetic, immature, child and binoculars come to mind. Not sure why binoculars though...

Ah well, I guess that normal services will be resumed shortly or something.

I have seen some n00bs celebrating online that n00bstories is dead. I got this one screenshot of a game named: YAY N00BSTORIES IS DEAD. It had a ping in the 500s.

Don't you folks worry none, about this here attack, see?

I firmly believe the Blazer/Crimson dynamic duo will prevail, and return the favor in kind to our little script kiddie.

These two were VERY instrumental in getting WSE shut down.

exactly. ping in the 500's. LAMER is the correct term for that host.

That game was hosted by Ty himself, the former owner of WSE, now a loser script kiddie wannabe who just goes around trying to keep friends.

Actually, as i remember, the host of WSE (ex-host) and Ty had an arguement with him. Ty then lead to acusations against the WSE Ex-Host. Ty then went to find a new host, failed and shut it down. Believe me, i should know.

Let's not turn this into a "what happened to WSE" debate. The attacks have resumed just as Blazer and I were moving the forums back onto the n00bstories server, so that move has been delayed.

The first attack, to the best of my knowledge, was ordered by Revolt, though he apparently has his own bots and wouldn't have to ask someone else to flood the site. I'm a bit confused on that aspect, but he succeeded in getting me fired from my web provider who was too small of an outfit to deal with DDOS attacks. He got his revenge and I guess he's satisfied.

The rest of the attacks are being done by Lithium, who makes up a new reason each time he attacks me. I have offered him everything he appears to want, but each time it's a new reason. I'm stumped in that aspect and I have resorted to alternate tactics, the details of which I can't reveal.

Please let this be the end of the discussion. If you want to contact me on this issue, please do so privately.

WSE.ORG wasnt shut down by them it was shut down by us we me and (TY) passed the domains onto WW who asked us to give them to EA so we gave WSE domains to EA and it was the end of WSE and stop bringing WSE into it pls

It seems a shame that you have had to bend to his wants, but not knowing to much about the detail i can't comment too much

All i can see is that n00bstories.com isn't exactly an evil empire created to dominate the earth and doesn't need these terrorists holding it to randsom

I have some pics of models i'd like to anounce but as n00bstories is down i'm kind of out of options for the hosting part, shame, the contribution that n00bstories usually puts towards the communitys benefit is being felt here

Thanks for your concern, guys. This is driving me crazy and I'm so busy with my real job that I certainly don't have lots of time at my disposal to deal with this.

However, you must also thank Blazer, who's spent nearly every waking moment the last week or so dealing with this.

As for the demands... I had in the past kept his nickname from my site even though I could have made an elaborate n00b file on him. I also have not accepted any offers to have him and Ty's new Crimson-bashing site taken offline by a retaliation DDOS. I'm not a fighter, and I'm usually the type to sort out differences with words instead of stooping to illegal activities.

Blazer and I were joking about setting up a "Botnet of the Willing" which would involve people willingly joining a botnet when they're not using their computers so that we can use the combined bandwidth to defend our site. Of course we were only kidding, but if you have any better idea, let me know!

Pfft... A federal ass whoopin? Bah! Just give these angry rabid forum goers his digits and his computer will be a smoking crater. I remember in the Real life Comics community theres something around 28,000 members and man... The owner posted about a guy stealing his work and posting it. The members all did a kind of DOS on this thief just by visiting his site and downloading everything over and over. They shut him down within a few hours of the discovery of the theivery. ;P Crimson has got a mighty mob at her disposal. Just think about some of the people in this community... I bet they could do more than just a continuous downloading. But most of the time when That /\ happens its on accident. Such that Real life comics guy said "don't do anything to him" and all the overzealous fans sure got that theif good... thousands of e-mails. Oh well... I think I'm like rambling now but if Crimson wants to really drop the internet nuclear bomb just turn rabid forum goers on them.

Well, that would be really easy, I'm sure... but I'm sure he visits here and I know some of his friends do. I've already had threats from another one of these assholes that he's going to be in my city in June and he wants to come kick my ass or Blazer's ass or something. Yeah, real man to hit a girl. Anyway... we're ready for them, my brother and Blazer... if he wants to be a man. But he'll probably be a pansy and throw a brick through my window or some shit. Good thing my car is in the garage. But, the chances really are that they won't do shit except maybe drive by and laugh and then go back to the friends and be like "I saw her house dude!"

But the part that actually scares me is that my grandma has the same name as me and when you search for my name in the phone book, you'll get her address first, so all these idiots think I live there, but I don't! Just look up who owns n00bstories.com (the domain) and you will have MY real address and phone number. Fuck with me all you like, but do not bring my family into it... again. They broadcast my grandma's phone number all over the Renegade and Red Alert lobbies back in the day and I almost had to pay to get that phone number changed when they've had that number longer than I've been alive.

Anyway, enough ranting. Blazer and I have already succeeded in disarming him, just a little... and he also swears he's done attacking me (I've heard that before) -- we'll see.

Thanks for your support, guys. This has been hell.
