I want to start up a dedicated server, but i need a serial code in order to do it. I sent the email to WW, but since they are closed, I got no reply. If anyone has a spare serial lying around, I would greatly appreciate the use of it.

Don't you have the game?

And why would anyone just have another serial code just laying around?

OK, in order to run the Free Dedicated Server Software, or FDS, you need to obtain a serial from Westwood at renegadeserver.westwood.com. When you attempt to do that, you get no reply, ever. So, I was wondering if anyone who has done this earlier no longer requires the use of their serial code for the FDS.

strange....

I think you have to try again and maybe they are sending the serial to the wrong email address or something??? (Maybe you gave a false email address when you signed up?)

I don't think it's wise to give out your serial number on the forums
