All this time I have been wondering what characteristics about me make almost every one just start to dislike me and chose me as their target of harassment. Almost all my recent posts i have been put down in some way or another, the argument against me most of the time verging on desperate stupidity to make my post look pointless or stupid. A good example would be the

them in MP. Then Sir Phoenixx jumps right in assuming that i thought he was going to use them in MP when all i was doing is asking. This is normal behavior that i endure daily from classmates depended on it. But here in these forums? What is it about me that people hate and instantly

Also i see people posting something almost exactly like i would have said but i see no negative posts after it. If i were to post something like that, much like I'm doing now, i can assure you that i will get negative posts toward it.

Infinint, there are many morons in this world, if you let them get to you, the you need to re think about what things are important to you.

This is a forum, who cares what some kid across the other side of the world thinks of you

Amen that, maybe your just going through one of those times. Where everyone seems like a prick. Don't let it bother you. And you have strength actually posting this, if I felt the same way as you I would rather keep it to myself or at the least talk to people I knew not on a forum.

Your spot on their mate!

Who gives a flying shit if some snotty 10 year old kid says your a n00b for killing him. Of course he's gonna be pissed off, mainly because someone better than him has shown him up.

Regarding people on the forum... all i can say is there are some great peeps on here and of course where ever theres good, theres always bad, sorry buddy but its a fact of life that we all have to deal with.

If you let the bastards get to ya, then you've lost, but if you just take it with a smile and class it as a joke rather than an insult you've already won, no one can take that from you!

I just insult with logic if ever faced with such stupid text wars. Sometimes even though your already a bigger person, you have to condescend to their level and give them their own medicine with your own twist. I don't usually hold back what I want to say to some people over the net, because I have no respect for someone who waste my time with such BS.

It must be the 60KB signature banner...

No, in all honesty, lets go back and rehash that thread.

SomeGuy: Hey, I've beaten the game on the easiest, but get my ass kicked on the next difficulty level. I've been looking for about a week for a mod or something in SP, can anyone help me out?

You: Try some zip bleh program, oh yea.. and you don't plan on using this in MP do you?

My first observation, as with Phoenixx was that he 'said straight out' that he was looking to play the SP game again on a higher difficulty level, and was looking for a mod to help him. "He" doesn't need to say anything about MP, he stated very clearly that he was looking for SP.. YOU are the one that is implying he might be a MP cheater. So, why the assumptions?

Which leads us on to the next observation. If he DID want these for MP, do you think he's going to sheepishly reply "Yea, I want it for MP but I was trying to sneak it past you all." Probably not.. If he wants them for MP, he sure as hell isn't going to say so, especially when put on the spot about it.. so why ask? The only logical answer is that it is somewhat self-serving, in that you wanted to be the first to lecture him about the evilness of cheating in multiplayer, you just wanted him to give you a reason to first.

And all this, is of course, my own opinion.. but hey.. you asked for it.

InfinintA good example would be the thread going were someone is asking for cheats for SP assuming that i thought he was going to use them in MP when all i was doing is asking.

I did not assume anything, you thought that he might use them for MP so you wanted to verify this. Why don't you go back and actually try reading that thread this time. He CLEARLY stated that he was looking for cheats for SP, he never implied even slightly that he'll use them for MP.

But you obviously don't read before replying. I was only stating the FACT that it was VERY obvious that he was only looking for a cheat for SP and not MP.

And to answer your question, you don't read before replying, and you jump to conclusions and take everything the wrong way. (As evident by your posting of this thread.)

I realize what msgtpain said "If he DID want these for MP, do you think he's going to sheepishly reply "Yea, I want it for MP but I was trying to sneak it past you all." Probably not.. Is there anything that is desscused in this forum not concluding with a flame wheather it be large or small or a sexual remark? Remeber that thread on that start a story and we all make parts of it. That ended with gay ass fucking. wtf is going on with the the comunity. Its like every one is agesnt each other or is looking for something stupid some one does and exploting it. Same happens in renegade and the most of the online world. Its strange to me how people are so imature.

Stupid? Why don't you read what you just wrote you fucking hypocrite. I was only explaining the situation, but YOU had to start throwing insults and start a "flame war". But hey, you're not mature enough to discuss something without throwing petty insults in to your replies.

There was no logic or reason behind asking him if he's going to cheat online with them. If he was thinking about using them to cheat in MP he would never truthfully respond (unless he's really really stupid). If he was going to use them in MP, your asking rather he will or won't use them online will in no way make him change his mind.

Lol... You continue to make less and less sense the more you post. If I tell you that you need to learn how to read than I should learn to read myself? That makes alot of sense... :rolleyes:

And you just proved my point that you do not read before replying. I never once said in this thread that you need to learn how to read. I said that you don't read before replying.
