Whenever I take a screen shot in call of duty it ends up being very dark for some reason, does anyone know what is happening, or how to fix it?

you might have to use some sort of pallete.... i know that Red Alert needs a special one....

btw could you resize your siggy? it streaches the topic too much

It happens to me too. I just brighten them when I resize them.

I already shortened my siggy, do you mean the image is to big? I already tried brightening it after I take it, but it doesn't look right some reason to me, ohh well.
